

John Harvie debuts "Beauty In The Bad Things" & announces signing to FRKST / Elektra Entertainment

Premieres on Consequence of Sound

+DEBUT ALBUM 'TOLD YA.' ARRIVING 8.26 +

WATCH HERE

PRE-SAVE 'TOLD YA' HERE

June 29, 2022 – Today, up and comer John Harvie releases the heartfelt single/visual “Beauty In The Bad Things.” Featuring his real-life brother, Porter, the video takes John on a flashback journey through his childhood. Juxtaposing videos of John as an endearing kid with present-day John’s impending success, “Beauty In The Bad Things” takes viewers in a time machine with the ultimate soundtrack: John Harvie’s punchy vocals and an infectious chorus.

Celebrating the release, John announces his debut album Told Ya. arriving on August 26 - pre-save HERE.

Additionally, John Harvie announces his recent sign to Elektra Entertainment + FRKST, an imprint founded by Johnny Stevens of Highly Suspect.

Beginning in September, catch John Harvie at a city near you as he heads on an Arena tour with Shinedown. Find a date near you here.

Harvie’s edgy vocals and charming personality fittingly arrived at the forefront of the resurgence of a new era of rock music. Coupled with a clear vision of his artistry, Harvie’s impending success proves to be just around the corner. Look out 2022...

“Beauty” is a really special song for me personally. I saw a video talking about imagining your younger self running up to you in the present day and giving yourself a hug and it resonated with me really heavy. I had just gotten back from a writing trip in Los Angeles and had a session the next day. I was feeling really burnt out and was in a weird/difficult spot in my life and two of my great friends Charlotte Sands and Danen Reed Rector we’re able to let me come into the session vulnerable and open up about what was going on. I explained everything from the pressure of me just recently signing and trying to perform well in my job, to financially supporting my friends on my team and making friends and family around me proud, as well as myself. I had written the words ‘There’s beauty in the bad things’ in my notes and we decided to use that as the theme for the song. I hope it hits people as hard as it hits me, and others can be honest with themselves about being in a spot in life where they don’t feel like themselves. One of my favorite songs on the record.” - John Harvie

TOLD YA. TRACK-LIST

1. My Name (In Your Mouth)
2. Bleach (On The Rocks)
3. Paint My Lips

4. A Little Bit Longer
5. Home And A Hard Place
6. Alaina
7. Worse
8. Soda Sweet
9. Beauty In The Bad Things
10. Not Another Song
11. Haunt Me
12. Lover
13. Open Mic At My Funeral

ABOUT JOHN HARVIE

Louisville bred, Nashville based John Harvie intertwines hook-laden anthems and raunchy guitar riffs, continuing to make his mark in the Punk-Pop + Rock space. The recent 300 Entertainment / FRKST Records (Johnny Stevens of Highly Suspect's imprint label) signee, seemingly walked into a music career after his hilarious coughing-fit-cover of Fall Out Boy's "Sugar We're Goin' Down" went viral overnight. However, what started as a joke between friends not only became the beginning of Harvie's TikTok career but sparked an unparalleled work ethic to make a longstanding dream reality. Growing up the son of a pastor, music was a constant in Harvie's life yet he knew it would take more than talent to make it a career. Dropping out of college, Harvie worked day jobs to support his music while he continued calling the frat house he'd been a part of his home. Harvie released "Bleach (On The Rocks)" in the middle of the pandemic and was met with acclaim from fellow musicians such as lil aaron who remixed the song mere weeks later. The track solidified Harvie's raw talent with the original created on his third co-write. Both tracks have a whopping ~8 million streams on Spotify alone. Next, Harvie unveiled a personal track that told the story of lust in the social media age, specifically Harvie's Tinder turned Snapchat relationship that fueled the melody and lyrics of "Alaina." With two singles under his belt, John Harvie is gearing up for brand new music and ready to make his mark on 2022.

